LOST ITINERARY

ARTWORKS BY LOUIS WAYLING

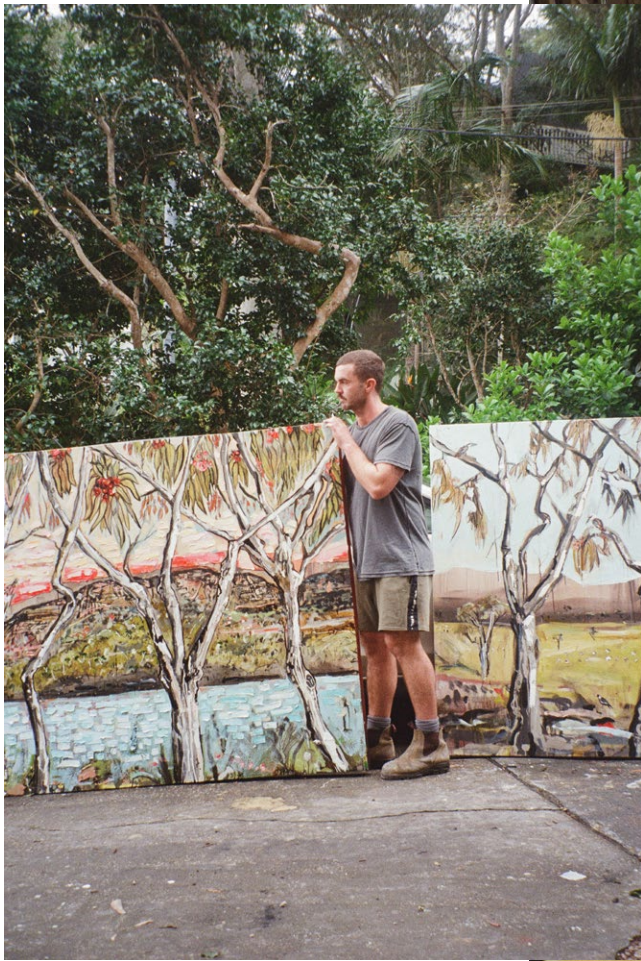

This is a collection that I have grown with - felt, smelt and seen with my own eyes. All of these paintings are photographs captured purely by memory. When I search for inspiration and let my mind wander, my imagination takes over as the adventurer, unchanged from when I was a boy. My body of work 'Lost Itinerary' is just that, snapshots of my memories - a collection of adventures and places I have been to this year, through the eyes of mine expressed through my favourite mediums.

In time I've found more values. One being that we are made from nature and that being ourselves is only natural. I have always felt a profound connection to this land we walk upon. I look up often too. I give gratitude to Mother Nature and the universe that holds us all together. Plants and animals have always been the main subject that I explore within my paintings, to me they are little reminders of how special life really is. There is something incredible about the Australian dirt and sand we step foot on.

I acknowledge the traditional owners of this stolen land - past, present and emerging. Knowing wholeheartedly there were footsteps here long before mine. My gratitude is deeply rooted within this soil, a soil I am a guest upon.

And so, my works are an ODE to this beautiful land. 'THE AUSTRALIANA', the textures and moods of vibrant colourful landscapes, rippling with happy connotations and PASSING MEMORIES of my everyday life.

A life and land in colour that I embrace with PRIDE.
